A face-to-face orientation offers the benefits of meeting other delegates from the same region, meeting some Boys State Counselors or Staff, familiarization of The American Legion through the local post, and asking questions with someone to answer. The Q&A portion benefits the parents in most cases more so than the delegates.

We understand that scheduling conflicts are a constant in the life of a family, especially during the school year. If a delegate and/or their parent(s) is/are unable to attend any of the Orientations, either in their district or not, they may access the materials online: www.ialegion.org/boysstate. Questions may then be directed towards their district's point of contact or Boys State Chairman (provided online).
